DR. BREADY SPEAKS

Preacher-Mayor of Pontiac, Mich. Emphasizes Components of Four-Square City

An audience of Bismarck men and women which filled the Rialto theater last night heard Dr. Russell H. Bready, pastor of the First Methodist church and mayor of Pontiac, Michigan, a city of 40,000, give his opinion of a knicker in football style, heard him tell just why every forward citizen should join in a program for the betterment of a city through a Chamber of Commerce formed on the American City Bureau plan, and learned from him just what it means for every citizen to forget hate and prejudice and politics and join in a movement for the common good of his community.

The audience was enthusiastic. The big community gathering started with community singing led by Frank Gale. S. W. Corwin presided. C. L. Young, former president of the club, spoke briefly. J. H. McLaughlin outlined the reorganization plan of the Commercial club. Mrs. Frank Barnes sang two beautiful solos, accompanied by Mrs. Genevieve Menard-Hughes, and Dr. Bready addressed the audience.

Politics, business animosity, personal hatred must be buried, he said, in building what he called a four-square city. And the four elements in the citizenship of a four-square city are: first, loyalty; second, territorialization; third, organization, and fourth, visualization.

Emphasizing his first point, Dr. Bready declared loyalty to a city was a duty of every citizen. "If there is anyone in Bismarck who knocks your city it would be a blessing to you if he moved out, and if there is anyone who knocks North Dakota it would be a blessing if he moved away," Dr. Bready said. "For the person who finds the bad things in one city will find it in another."

He emphasized the value of a fraternal spirit, and declared that the only organization through which all the elements of a city can work for the common good is a commercial and civic organization such as the Commercial club.

He told of his own experience. He said he, as mayor of Pontiac, Mich., had been in a controversy with the superintendent of police. But at a big civic dinner they sat side by side, rose and asked to be placed on the same team in the canvass.

He told his audience the commercial and civic club ought to include Republicans, Democrats, Nonpartisans, business men, laboring men—all the elements of the city.

Must Preserve Institutions.
Dr. Bready told of propaganda being carried out in large cities by red-flag socialists. He said he had stood on the corners and heard them denounce religion and denounce marriage. They are working to overthrow all American institutions, he declared. It is the duty, he said, of all citizens to join in an organization to improve the city for the common good, to help remedy such evils as there are and to preserve American institutions.

Dr. Bready said in part:

"It is just as possible for a city to lose its soul as an individual. The soul of the city is the spirit of its citizens. We read of the city in this (Continued on Page 7)

PROBE DRAGS IN HALL-MILLS CASE

(By the Associated Press)
New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 10.—The Hall-Mills murder mystery remained a mystery today and there seemed to be no immediate prospect of its being cleared up. No official announcement has been made as to the result of the conference in Somerville yesterday between Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott, in charge of the case, and the foreman of the Somerset county grand jury.

Mr. Mott declined to make any statement when he emerged from the conference, but his attitude indicated that he had been unable to convince Foreman Gibbs and other officials that he had enough evidence to warrant grand jury action. Many people in New Brunswick believe the case will never go beyond the investigation stage.

The grand jury has been called to meet here this afternoon to take up its regular term, but Mr. Mott said the Hall-Mills case would not be presented this week.

CLAIM CONTROL

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 10.—Independents were claiming control of the complete state government here this afternoon. On figures tabulated here today showing a lead for independent candidates for Lieutenant Governor and three independent candidates for Supreme Court. They also claimed that control of the State Board of Administration will rest with them through the election of Nestes, Nelson, and Kitchen. They also make vigorous claims Lieutenant Governor Hyland will preside over the senate twenty-six to twenty-three in control of independent and that the speaker elected from the house membership will have deciding vote in all strictly organization division between I. V. A. and League.

With returns from more than half of the precincts of the state available, Nusselle, the low member of the Independent trio of candidates for Supreme Justice is leading his nearest opponent by more than 6,800, with Attorney Johnson the high man an additional five thousand in lead. Territory to be heard from is quite largely divided between Independent and League forces. Independent members of the state ticket under Governor continue to maintain a lead while the Nonpartisan members and their democratic opponents are running a merry race with a few thousand votes between high and low men.

As much of the territory from which votes will come for later tabulation is divided it is considered probable that there will be close for Insurance Commissioner and the Railroad Commission and possibly State Auditor. Latest figures, 1923 precincts: Frazier 39,027; O'Connor 38,062. Governor same precincts, Nestes 105,153; Lemke 70,533. Justice 1106 precincts: Birdzell 42,375; Burr 45,020; Engliert 42,377; Johnson 60,812; Nusselle, 5,464; Richardson 45,882.

State ticket 1166 precincts give Hyland 52,686; Bowman 34,709; Hall 57,253; Moeller 34,915; Poindexter 48,778; Anderson 41,960; Steen 54,539; Larson 38,242; Shaffer 54,101; Illard 33,214; Sness 45,114; Lillibridge 46,717; Kitchen 32,909; Baker 38,266; Pollock 37,208; Dixon 39,616; O'Leary 37,022; Harding 40,239; Milhollen 40,379; McDonald 30,909.

Lynn J. Frazier and J. F. T. O'Connor were taking turns in the lead in North Dakota's senatorial contest today. Former Governor Frazier appeared in the lead first at nine o'clock this morning when he had a majority of three votes.

This was wiped out a moment later when returns from Golden Valley county gave O'Connor a lead of ninety. Frazier overcame this lead and again was passed by O'Connor early in the afternoon and Frazier had assumed a majority of a few hundred votes. It is expected that this majority will continue to increase and that his final majority will be between 3,000 and 7,000.

S. A. Olesness, for insurance commissioner and C. W. McDonnell for railroad commissioner were forced out of the lead for the first time this afternoon by E. A. Lillibridge and Arthur Dixon respectively. While the vote on insurance commissioner and the railroad commission has been close throughout, it is the first time any of the Democratic rivals have forced their Republican opponents into second place.

Judiciary
Independent Voters Association candidates for places on the supreme court continued to maintain a lead with returns from about half of the precincts in the state tabulated. Sveinbjorn Johnson, Attorney General was holding a lead which he had maintained from the first, being two thousand votes ahead of Chief Justice Luther Birdzell, the (Continued on Page Three.)

Washington, Nov. 10.—With congress called by President Harding to convene in extra session November 20, members of the house appropriations committee scheduled to meet today with the aim of having several of the appropriation bills ready for the house by the beginning of the regular session immediately following on December 4. During the two weeks of the extra session the call for which was issued by the president last night in accordance with an announcement at the White House early this week, the house is expected to devote its attention to the ship subsidy bill while sub-committees of its appropriations committee work on the supply bills, where form the most important task of the regular session.

It was with a view to getting an earlier start in an effort to clean up important legislation, including the appropriation bills by next March 4, when the sixty-seventh congress must adjourn sine die, that the call for an extra session was issued.

WANT GRAIN GRADING ACT
Fargo, N. D., Nov. 10.—Farmers and city dwellers alike in this state desire North Dakota to have a grain grading law. In the only initiated measure on the ballot the proposition to again place upon the state books of the state an act to give agents of the state the power to say what shall be the grade of grain in state commerce is receiving an overwhelming vote, some counties voting for it in a five to one ratio. In none of the counties thus far reported has a substantial vote against the measure been recorded.

The new measure takes the place of a measure in force in the state for some time, which was declared unconstitutional by the United States supreme court, that body holding that some of the provisions of the North Dakota law contravened the specifications of the federal grain grading act.

FINISH ROAD BODY DRIVE

Enlistment of Local Support
In Association Continues

Announcement is made that the local drive for memberships in the North Dakota State Good Roads Association, which was suspended for a period of time on account of the busyness of a number of the team members, will be completed this week.

From the results already reported, it seems certain that Bismarck will lead the cities of the state not only in the dues paid in but also in the comparative number of members. Mandan at present has not only more members than has Bismarck but one inhabitant out of every 25 is a member of the Good Roads Association, this being the best record as to cities of the state. Bismarck ranks seventh in this respect, one out of every 47 persons enrolled in the association.

According to Secretary J. E. Kaulfuss, "unless the legislature enacts such legislation as the association sponsors, North Dakota will not be able to take future advantage of the federal and highway bridges across the Missouri, nor any such state work as is now in progress between Bismarck and Mandan."

The State Good Roads Association represents the sentiment for better highways and advances; its present plan as the first step toward making the state assume its position among the road-building states of the country.

ELKS GIVE DANCE TONIGHT

A dance will be given tonight by the Elks at the Grand Pacific hotel. Arrangements have been made to make this one of the biggest of the season.

Dr. Louis Weber, the first of the prosecution's alienists, said: "My reasons for believing Mrs. Phillips sane are based on the assumption that she admonished Peggy Caffee following the crime, not to tell any one of it. That could not have been evidence of amnesia. It also indicated Clara Phillips knew the difference between right and wrong at the time. Otherwise she would not have warmed Mrs. Caffee to remain silent."

Dr. Edwin O. Sawyer expressed similar opinions.

TWO WOMEN MAY GO TO N. D. HOUSE

Mrs. Minnie D. Craig of Esmond Wins in Legislative Fight

MINOT WOMAN AHEAD

Grain Grading Act Gets Endorsement on Farm and
In City

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 10.—With the lead of J. T. F. O'Connor as returns from the rural precincts of the state were received from the mud that held them, North Dakota also found itself today with its first woman member of the legislature and with a strong probability that a second woman would take her place in the ranks of the legislators. The woman elected was Mrs. Minnie D. Craig of Esmond, Benson county. The woman who has a lead and may be announced as elected when this vote are all in is Miss Nellie Dougherty of Minot.

Mrs. Craig made a pronounced success of her campaign the primaries, having the endorsement of the nonpartisan league. She is the one member of her organization elected in Benson county, the other members of the house and the state senator being the members of the Independent Voters Association.

With the decision that the leadership for United States senator would be given to Lynn J. Frazier, the points remaining to be settled by the collection of the returns was the exact make up of the state legislature, the senate being claimed by the Independents and the house by the nonpartisans, and the final decision between the six men running for places on the North Dakota bench. The early lead established by the members of the railway commission in territory considered adverse to the Nonpartisan league was taken to indicate that the three Republican having the support of the league would be elected.

The majority of Governor Nestes in the county is about 1,750, figuring two missing precincts. Frazier carried Burleigh county by about 350. Nestes carried the county in the primary by 480 and McCumber by 10 votes.

The three county commissioners elected are E. G. Paterson, by 91 votes, Oscar Backman and Axel Soder. Soder defeated J. O. Lein in the fourth district by about 120 votes, and will succeed Grant Palms. Backman defeated F. C. Nelson by 30 votes and will succeed C. L. Malone. Patterson's majority was 91.

L. E. Heston led the Republican Independent legislative ticket, or virtually complete Burleigh county.

With all but one precinct unofficially reported, Victor Anderson led R. L. Best only 84 votes for the legislature. The remaining precinct will, on the basis of reports on other offices, give Best a lead of 10 to 15 votes, which would make Anderson's majority about 50.

George Dolan, W. S. Casselman and Anton Berach were elected justices of the peace.

The complete, or virtually complete, county vote, is as follows:

PHILLIPS CASE NEARS END

(By the Associated Press)
Los Angeles, Nov. 10.—Dr. Victor Parkin, the last of the alienist subpoenaed by the state to refute evidence that the defendant was insane, was expected to conclude his testimony at today's session of the trial of Mrs. Clara Phillips for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows.

Dr. Parkin was called to the stand yesterday after other alienists subpoenaed by the state had expressed their belief that Mrs. Phillips was sane.

Dr. Louis Weber, the first of the prosecution's alienists, said: "My reasons for believing Mrs. Phillips sane are based on the assumption that she admonished Peggy Caffee following the crime, not to tell any one of it. That could not have been evidence of amnesia. It also indicated Clara Phillips knew the difference between right and wrong at the time. COUNTY AGENT IS FAVORED IN BURLEIGH

Heavy Majority Is Given for Proposition by Voters in Bismarck and Country

SODER, BACKMAN WIN

Are Elected County Commissioners with Patterson—Burleigh Co. Totals Given

Voters of Burleigh county by a decisive majority favor the employment of a county agricultural agent. While the vote was not given the same attention in the compilation of about half the vote in the county gave for agricultural extension work, 2-875, against, 510. The vote favored the employment of an agent in every precinct in the county of Bismarck.

The grain grading act also received a decisive majority in the county. There were 3,030 votes for it as against 810 against in about half the majorities.

The county races, decided yesterday, showed no change in the one or two rural precincts coming in last night. The complete vote on sheriff, the closest race of all, tallied with that given in The Tribune last night, except that the report to the county auditor's office increased the majority of Albin Hedstrom from 29 to 32.

CLOSE CALL IN SENATE

Washington State Sends First Democrat to Congress Since 1887

Washington, Nov. 10.—On the face of practically complete but unofficial returns from Tuesday's elections the exact lineup by parties in the sixty-eighth congress will be:

House — Republican, 225; Democrats, 207; Socialist, 1; Independent, 1; Farmer-Labor, 1.

Senate—Republicans, 53; Democrats, 42; Farmer-Labor, 1.

The Republican total in the senate is predicated upon a victory for that party in the senatorial contest in North Dakota. Should final returns show the election of J. F. T. O'Connor, the Democratic candidate, the Republicans would have fifty-two and the Democrats forty-three. In the present senate the Republicans have sixty members and the Democrats 36, a Republican majority of 24.

In the house the Republicans, on the basis of the unofficial returns, will have a majority of 15 over the combined strength which could be mustered against them by the Democrats and others, and a plurality of 18 over the Democrats as a party unit. In the present house the Republicans have a majority of 185 over all, and a plurality of 165 over the Democrats.

DEFEATED BY 35,599.
Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—Complete unofficial figures on United States tabulated by the Associated Press today showed that Samuel M. Ralston, Democrat, defeated former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Republican, by 35,599 votes in the election held Tuesday.

The figures are: Ralston, 658,499; Beveridge, 622,900; William Henry Socialist, 11,418.

DEMOCRAT WINS.

Dill, Democrat of Spokane, whose election to the United States congress is indicated by returns in which Charles Hohberd, Republican state chairman does not expect "any material change," will be the youngest member when he takes his seat March 4, it is said here.

Mr. Dill, who was 33 years old three weeks ago, is a bachelor. Besides Ernest Lister, former governor, he is the only Democrat to win in a state wide contest in Washington since 1887. He is the only Democrat ever re-elected to congress in the state.

Mr. Dill has been a school teacher and a newspaper man. He was a deputy prosecuting attorney and was secretary to the late Governor Lister.

SIMPSON TO BE "COLONEL" IN CAMPAIGN

Accepts Position in Big Commercial Club Reorganization Campaign

Great impetus was given to the Commercial Club campaign when the executive committee announced that C. R. Simpson of the Gamble, Robinson Co., had accepted his appointment as leader of the teams organization for the big drive. He will have as his adjutant, P. R. Fields of the International Harvesting Co., who will act as lieutenant-colonel of teams. Both of these men have acted in campaigns of this kind before and their experience and ability along these lines make them particularly adapted for the job. Simpson, assisted by Mr. Fields, will have the whole responsibility of building up the teams organization of about a hundred workers who will start out on the intensive drive on Nov. 20th. Under the colonel and his adjutant, will be four majors each in charge of a division, and in each division will be four captains, each in command of a team of five men. The names of the majors will be known in the morning and a meeting will be immediately held to select the sixteen team captains. For the purposes of calling on the citizens, the city will be divided into four equal districts and each district will be looked after by a division. On each of the four days of the intensive drive, luncheons will be held at which the captains will make reports and will hear short pep talks by local speakers. There will be several prizes given to the winners by the divisions making the highest scores on each day, and a lot of friendly rivalry will be engendered in the competitions between the four divisions. In speaking of the campaign today, Colonel Simpson said, "I am indeed delighted to be honored by the executive committee in this appointment as head of the teams organization. Bismarck has needed a real live Commercial Club for some time, and I am certainly glad to be able to work in the building of one. It is a mighty important movement or I would never have consented to take the responsibility of acting in this capacity. I am ready though to give unparagoned of my time and my effort if we have an organization here that will be an everlasting credit to our community. In taking this job," Mr. Simpson continued, "I did so with the understanding that every man I called on would help a little, and would do his share. I am willing to do all I can for the Commercial Club but I can't do it alone. In this teams organization, we will need the sincere assistance of nearly a hundred men. Being 'busy' is no excuse for not lending a hand in the good cause. This job we have on hand is just as important as anything I can think of. If it wasn't, I wouldn't be working for it. The Majors of the four divisions will be calling on some of you fellows in a day or so, to act as team captains, and then after that, the team captains will be out after lieutenants for the sixteen teams. If everybody who is asked will say 'count on me' we will hang up a record here in Bismarck that the rest of the state can never reach."

CHAPTER II
Darragh, in blanket outfit, a pair of snow-shoes on his back, a rifle in his mitted hand, came trudging up from the lake. He and Stormont watched Lennis riding away with the two horses.
"He'll make it all right, but it's time he started," said the latter.
Darragh nodded. "Some storm. Where is Eve?"
"In her room."
"What is she going to do, Jack?"
"Marry me as soon as possible. She wants to stay here for a few days but I can't leave her here alone. I think I'll telephone to Ghost Lake for a sleigh."
"Let me talk to her," said Darragh in a low voice.
"Do you think you'd better—at such a time?"
"I think it's a good time. It will divert her mind, anyway. I want her to come to Harrod Place."
"She won't," said Stormont grimly.
"She might. Let me talk to her." Stormont hesitated, looked at him, nodded. Darragh stood his rifle against the bench on the kitchen porch. They entered the house slowly. And met Eve descending the stairs.
The girl looked at Darragh, astonished, then her pale face flushed with anger.
"What are you doing in this house?" she demanded unsteadily, "have you no decency, no shame?"
"Yes," he said, "I am ashamed of what my kinsman has done to you and yours. That is partly why I am here."
"You came here as a spy," she said with hot contempt. "You lied about your name; you lied about your purpose. You came here to be tray Dad! If he'd known it he would have killed you!"
"Yes, he would have. But—do you know why I came here, Eve?"
"I've told you!"
"And you are wrong. I didn't come here to betray Mike Clinch; I came to save him."
"Do you suppose I believe a man who has lied to Dad?" she cried.
"I don't ask you to, Eve. I shall let somebody else prove what I say. I don't blame you for your attitude. God knows I don't blame Mike Clinch. He stood up like a man to Henry Harrod. . . . All I ask is to undo some of the rotten things that my uncle did to you and yours. And that is partly why I came here."
The girl said passionately: "Neither Dad nor I want anything from Harrod Place or from you. Do you suppose you can come here after Dad is dead and pretend you want to make amends for what your uncle did to us?"
"Eve," said Darragh gravely, "I've made some amends already. You don't know it, but I have. . . . You may not believe it, but I liked your father. He was a real man. Had anybody done to me what Henry Harrod did to your father I'd have behaved as your father behaved; I'd never have budged where I chose; I'd have borne an implacable hatred against Henry Harrod and Harrod Place, and every soul in it!"
The girl, silenced, looked at him without belief.
He said: "I am not surprised that you distrust what I say. But the man you are going to marry was a junior officer in my command. I have no closer friend than Jack Stormont. Ask him whether I am to be believed."

"Hello, Nancy! We're having Kellogg's at our house. Mother keeps me going for breakfast—but I don't care 'cause I like Kellogg's!"

It's the flavor and crispness that make Kellogg's Corn Flakes so joyously delicious

You'll wish the bowl at your table-seat was about twice as big when it's "Kellogg's for the feast!" Great big, sunny-brown corn flakes—all oven-crisp and crunchy—crowding each other to spread your real and true joy! You never tasted such flavor!

Pour in some fresh, cold milk—or cream—and—start in! Well, it'll seem you can't get going speedy enough to suit your appetite! Was there ever such a keen appetite maker, such happy, health-making food!

Tomorrow, serve Kellogg's! What a round of appetite-applause you'll win! Great to start the day right!

Do more than ask your grocer for "corn flakes." Insist upon KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes—they're so delicious!

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

Also makers of KELLOGG'S KRUMBLES and KELLOGG'S BRAN, cooked and krumbled

so I brought with me—somebody—to whom I felt certain you would listen. . . . I brought with me a young girl—a poor refugee from Russia, once wealthy, today almost penniless. . . . Her name is Theodora. . . . Once she was Grand Duchess of Esthonia. . . . But this morning a clergyman from Five Lakes changed her name. To such friends as you and Jack she is Ricca Darragh now. . . . and she's having a wonderful time on her new snow-shoes."

He took Eve by one hand and Stormont by the other, and drew them to the kitchen door and kicked it open.

Through the swirling snow, over on the lake-slope at the timber edge, a graceful, boyish figure in scarlet and white wool moved swiftly over the drifts with all the naive delight of a child with a brand new toy.

All aglow and a trifle breathless, she met Darragh just beyond the veranda, rested one mitted hand on his shoulder while he knelt and unbuckled her snow-shoes, stepped lightly from them and came forward to Eve with outstretched hand and a sudden winning gravity in her lovely face.

"We shall be friends, surely," she said in her quick, winning voice—"because my husband has told me—and I am so grieved for you—and I need a girl friend."

Holding both Eve's hands, her mittens dangling from her wrist, she looked into her eyes very steadily.

Slowly Eve's eyes filled; more slowly Ricca kissed her on both cheeks, framed her face in both hands, kissed her lightly on the lips.

Then, still holding Eve's hands, she turned and looked at Stormont.

"I remember you now," she said. "You were with my husband in Riga."

She freed her right hand and held it out to Stormont. He had the grace to kiss it and did it very well for a Yankee.

Together they entered the kitchen door and turned into the dining room on the left, where were chairs around the plain pine table.

Darragh said: "The new mistress of Harrod Place has selected your quarters, Eve. They adjoin the quarters of her friend, the Countess Orloff-Strelwitz."

"Valentine begged me," said Ricca, smiling. "She is going to be lonely without me. All hours of day and night we were trotting into one another's rooms." She looked gravely at Eve: "You will like Valentine; and she will like you very much. . . . Aor for me—I already love you."

Sh put one arm around Eve's shoulders: "How could you ever think of remaining here all alone? Why, I should never close my eyes for thinking of you, dear."

Eve's head drooped; she said in a stifled voice: "I'll go with you. I want to. . . . I'm very—sired."

"We had better go now," said Darragh. "Your things can be brought over later. If you'll dress for snow-shoeing, Jack can pack what clothes you need. . . . Are there snow-shoes for him, too?"

Eve turned tragically to her lover: "In Dad's closet—" she said, choking; then turned and went up the stairs, still clinging to Ricca's hand and drawing her with her.

ELIZABETH BENSON

By NEA Service.
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 10.—Elizabeth Benson, aged 8 years by family birth register, 18 by accredited mental tests, smoothed her short skirt and nodded her head gravely.

"I agree with Professor Lothrop Stoddard," she replied to a question.

"Parentage has everything to do with the offspring's mental caliber. Environment has little to do with it. The environmentalists have been proved wrong."

Elizabeth is the daughter of Willie Reamy Benson, former editor of a Fort Worth, Tex., newspaper. Her mother writes under the name of Anne Austin. Elizabeth aspires to write, too.

The child sees no reason to be vain in starting to school at 4, and then skipping two grades.

"Study simply comes easy," she explains. "I really enjoy arithmetic. I like French. I love to read."

Elizabeth reads Edgar Allan Poe with relish, but there is nothing morbid about her. She is jolly and plump.

Just a student? Elizabeth is proud that she is as good a cook and housewife as she is a scholar. She boasts of her muffins with theardonable pride of any good housewife.

And as to dolls—
"They haven't interested me since I was 3 years old," avers Elizabeth.

OLDEST N. P. ENGINEER QUILTS

At 83, George Geer, of Bozeman, Montana, believed to be the oldest locomotive engineer in his active service in the United States, has decided to turn over his engine to the newer generation.

Although Mr. Geer declares his eye to be as bright and his brain as clear as they were in 1845, when he began railroading, he thinks 51 years on an engine and 67 years as an active railroader entitle him to one of the comfortable pensions of the Northern Pacific Railway. D-

Since his advanced years, Mr. Geer has always—even up to his last service days—passed with high rank the most exacting examinations and tests of his profession and held his seniority until just a few days ago, when he resigned to go on the retired list.

"Running a locomotive is so much a part of my life that it is mighty hard to give it up," he said. "For more than 50 years, I have run engines, engines of all kinds, from the little ones that cost $10,000 a half-century ago to the mountain giants that are worth over $100,000 today."

The Northern Pacific is the best railroad in the United States to work for. I think we have the ablest leaders and the most loyal employees that can be found anywhere."

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me today to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do "it" now!

Syrup Pepsin, which children never object to taking as they like the taste. By morning the youngster will be well again. Likewise if the nostrils are stuffed up or there is persistent sneezing, a dose of Syrup Pepsin will break up the fever and cold.

Mrs. Geo. N. Colson of Bernard, Me., keeps her family well in that way, and Mrs. Ida A. Burkett of Carroll, La., who has been using Syrup Pepsin for a dozen years, has raised her three children on it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The formula, however, is on every package. Druggists have sold it with satisfaction to their customers for over 30 years, and it is now the largest selling family laxative in the world. Buy a bottle today. It will last you for months, and the cost is only about a cent a dose.

If you detect restlessness, belching, gas or wind on the stomach, sleeplessness, or lack of appetite, examine the tongue and you will find it coated, accompanied by unpleasant breath. The child is bilious, constipated. According to age, give from one-half to a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Success or Failure—Which?

Pradstreet's, one of the leading statistical agencies of the world, has recently completed a survey of the causes of business failures. Here is the result of their investigations:

CAUSE	PERCENTAGE
Incompetency	38.2
Lack of Capital	30.3
Inexperience	5.6
Fraud	7.0
Unwise Credits	1.3
Failure of others	1.7
Extravagance	1.1
Neglect	1.7
Competition	1.1
Specific conditions	11.3
Speculation	.7
Total	100.00

An analysis of this compilation yields the following conclusions:

1. That practically all of these are needless failures that a well rounded business training would prevent.
2. That at least 75% out of the possible 100% of these failures are directly or indirectly traceable to a lack of thrift.
3. That the man who puts aside a portion of his income regularly not only creates a fund to forestall business reverses, but he develops those traits of character which make for ultimate success. In this way 75% of his chances for failure are eliminated.

This can be accomplished best by means of a savings account. Then you will have an accumulation which will enable you to answer when opportunity knocks. It will serve as a bulwark against adversity which will overcome you if you have not the resources to meet it.

REBEL CHIEF KILLED ON WEST COAST

(By the Associated Press)
Mexico City, Nov. 10.—The roundup of rebels who have renounced the town of President Obregon has now started out of the life of General Juan Carrasco, leader of the rebellious forces along the west coast and particularly in the state of Sinaloa. He was killed yesterday together with several of his men in a battle with federal forces at Guamachito in the state of Durango. Not long ago it was understood that Carrasco was attempting a union with General Madero, the rebel leader who was captured and executed last week. The announcement of the passing of Carrasco came to the war office last night from General Juan Torres, federal commander in the Durango region. The government soldiers surprised Carrasco and the remnants of his band of 35 men quickly scattered. For a sanguinary encounter in which several were killed and five were taken prisoners along with a quantity of military supplies. Federal troops were pursuing those who fled. General Torres reported his casualties amounted to only two injured. Government officials had reckoned Carrasco as the most serious obstacle to peace in northwestern Mexico.

The figures on the state ticket under governor continued to show about the same ratio maintained from the beginning of the count. Unofficial returns, held to be accurate by men knowing the conditions in the different districts of the state, gave the independent a majority of one in the North Dakota house of representatives. RHEUMATISM
A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.
In the year of 1891, I was attacked by Rheumatism and Subacute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know for three years. I tried remedies after remedies, but on relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bed-ridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case. I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute swelling at the joints) rheumatism to try the great value of my improved Home Treatment for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent, simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to you. After you have used it, and it has proven itself to be that long-looked for means of getting rid of such a terrible affliction, you may send the price of it, One Dollar, but understand I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

(Established 1873)

THE RIGHT KIND OF TONIC
Dr. Russell H. Bready, the fighting parson mayor of Pontiac, Mich., administered a most timely tonic to civic Bismarck at the Rialto Theatre last evening. His message is most opportune coming as it does upon the eve of a city wide campaign to arouse a community spirit and to quicken city endeavor along broad and comprehensive lines.

His broadside left nothing unsaid. Dr. Bready never landed in the City Hall of Pontiac by calling a spade anything but a spade and he got under the municipal hide of Bismarck last evening and unless all signs fail started something that will develop into real city unity and gradually abolish petty factionalism.

Bismarck is a progressive city. Despite the fact that its Commercial Club in the past has not functioned as it should—and that now is simply water that has passed under the bridge—the metropolis of the Slope has forged ahead. Political strife may have militated against a greater development, but the miracle is that in face of divisions incident to all capital cities of this size the world over, Bismarck, the gateway to the West, has had a most wonderful development in the last ten years and is a mighty good city to live in—and to fight for.

Dr. Bready gave the essentials of "The Four Square City" last evening—"Loyalization," "Fraternalism," "Organization" and "Visualization." Of course the keystone is loyalty to the city without that every structure is built upon shifting sands. That civic virtue once firmly implanted in any community and the others follow naturally.

The futility of attempting to develop a community spirit through politics, lodges, churches or any special organization was logically demonstrated. Working through such forces merely means limited group action and worthy as it may be, has only a limited appeal. Where the welfare and interest of Bismarck are at stake, every citizen unselfishly actuated by selfish motives ought to meet on the common ground of an active, virile, going commercial organizations such as Bismarck must develop out of the campaign so auspiciously launched.

Everyone must measure up to the pitch upon which the campaign was initiated publicly last evening. The old slate has been cleaned. What is built in the future is up to you Mr. Citizen. You will get just the kind of a Commercial Club or Chamber of Commerce your energy, your sacrifice and your vision create. The American City Bureau is here to see that every inducement is offered to the citizens of Bismarck to get shoulder to shoulder for the development of all the city for all of the people, not part of the city for the selfish advancement of a particular few.

When the call goes out for a movement to better conditions in Bismarck, politics, factionalism or personal interest can well be put aside. Everyone is and must be big enough to work with anyone when the objective is simply the common good and the building here of "The Four Square City." Dr. Bready gave the citizens a dose of horse sense which has always been the salvation of the American people in the hour of the second sober thought. This city has come through the heat of a bitter campaign. It can well afford to forget the petty animosities stirred up and with a united front move forward to a realization of those ideals so eloquently pictured by Dr. Bready.

LET'S GO!

THE SURPRISING ELECTION.
Results of the election disclose very plainly that the voters of the country were in an ugly mood. The Republican majority in Congress was almost swept away, two close friends of the President were beaten for return to the United States Senate, the "wets" scored decisive victories, three farmer-labor candidates were elected to the United States Senate and a one-time bosom friend of Col. Roosevelt was defeated for the senate in Indiana.

A reaction from the tremendous Republican majority of 1920 was expected. The great overturn that came was unexpected. The people were voting for no constructive ideas or platform; the vote was one of discontent. The railroad and coal strikes, disturbed conditions in industry, the liquor issue and other elements entered into the mind of the average citizen in casting his ballot. The people voted negatively. The after-the-war readjustment period has been trying to most people; the great mass whose votes counted believed there was something wrong and because the people in office had not made things right they were voted down. There is no assurance on the part of most of the successful candidates chosen that they know how conditions may be bettered.

It was in part a negative vote that precipitated the Harding landslide in 1920. Long established confidence in the ability of the Republican party to manage the business affairs of the nation was a factor. The majority of people in North Dakota have been voting negatively for the past six years. Though the Nonpartisan league has offered a platform undeniably its greatest appeal has been through criticism of evils which the farmers believe they have suffered; there is nothing on which to base a belief that the farmers of the state are convinced that the proposed remedies will accomplish what they desire.

The result in New York was a tribute to tremendous personal popularity, as well as to the previous administration of Governor Al Smith, who was a good governor. His opponent, Governor Miller, gave the state a sound administration. He was outspoken, and he was not a good vote getter. Only the Harding landslide pulled him through in 1920.

The wets in New Jersey are celebrating, where Senator Frelinghuysen, friend of President Harding, an acknowledged dry, was defeated by Governor Edwards, openly wet. But, strange as it may seem, Edwards is confessedly personally dry while Frelinghuysen admitted his cellar was well stocked. In Nebraska the dry vote made itself felt against Senator Hitchcock, a Democratic leader. He avowed himself a dry, but his personal views in the past were moist. His successor is a Republican and he also had built up a large personal following because of his work on the city administration of Omaha, where he was a strong advocate of municipal ownership of public utilities, and he was classed as an ardent progressive.

Our sister state, Minnesota, sends many things to North Dakota, but North Dakota also sent the germ which became inculcated in Minnesota voters two years ago and led to the victory of Dr. Henrik Shipstead, friend of Townley and Frazier, a dentist and a farmer-labor candidate. Senator Kellogg is a strong and able man, but could not weather the determination of the voters to give vent to their feeling of discontent in the ballot. Dr. Shipstead was brought forward by A. C. Townley, but Townley urged his balance of power plan in Minnesota last year and his previous supporters broke away and joined the Van Lear organization with Shipstead. General discontent, the price of wheat and oats, too, had its effect in Minnesota.

Lodge, the Republican leader in the senate, won but by a narrow margin against a weak candidate. Senator Townsend, another Republican, was defeated in Michigan. The issue of "Newberryism" was raised against him. It did not handicap him in the primary against three other candidates and there is reason to believe that his defeat was a part of the general reaction against the Washington administration.

Senator La Follette's victory was expected. It was a matter of personal following. The victory of Smith Brookhart in Iowa was also expected. For Iowa, like North Dakota, still likes to vote in the Republican column. In Ohio a Republican senator was chosen. Senator Pomerene was defeated. He was an able man. His defeat was occasioned by somewhat the same attitude on the part of voters that defeated A. J. Beveridge, a progressive Republican, in Indiana. Senator Pomerene had been outspoken in his views on labor. Senator Pomerene talked plainly of his views on the labor situation. So did Mr. Beveridge. His campaign was really that of a conservative. The labor vote was active in both states.

The Socialists lost one congressman from New York but Milwaukee sends Victor Berger back to claim the seat that has been denied him.

The whole story of the election nationally is one of an old-fashioned change from one party to another. The astounding results in many quarters may, however, serve as a warning. The Republican administration must attempt to translate the vague demands of the people. And as much as it may be to the country's benefit to get it back to normalcy is cannot be in the good old-fashioned method which must be sugar-coated and labelled under another name.

The result in North Dakota is not due to the same causes which influenced the turn-over in many other states, except that the attitude which North Dakota has got used to on the part of about half of the voting population has only now been expressed in her sister states.

The election of Governor Nestos, as pointed out before, is an endorsement of his administration and his efforts during a short period in office. The tremendous size of his majority is explainable in part in that William Lemke was a weak candidate. Lemke may possess all the virtues or all the vices which have been credited to him heretofore, but before the voters he was a candidate lacking in those qualities which inspire a swell of votes.

The defeat of J. F. T. O'Connor by a small vote is nevertheless a tribute to his personal popularity. He was loaded down with the weight of being on the Democratic ticket in a state overwhelmingly Republican, and he doubtless lost many votes both through the determination of many to stick by the Republican party label and to the temptation to "vote 'er straight."

Many of Mr. O'Connor's friends feel that the Ku Klux Klan in Grand Forks county and religious prejudice in others cost him many votes. Before the election it did not appear, in view of the tremendous vote for Mr. O'Connor in 1920 for Governor, that this would amount to much more than talk. Whether the thoughtless activity of Mr. O'Connor's friends or the vindictiveness of his enemies produced a situation whereby religious prejudice entered into the voting, every responsible citizen ought to deplore and condemn. The action of any voter so moved is un-American and lacking in the practical application of Christian teachings.

League spokesmen assert that bad weather in the western part of the state and the weakness of Lemke cost Frazier several thousand votes.

This is the second time that Mr. O'Connor has been named for office on a fusion platform. This election also brought in the names of other candidates on a fusion ticket. The Nonpartisan League has tried to go outside the Republican column after a primary and has failed. It ought to be plain now that the fusion ticket cannot work. Voters may switch en masse to a Democratic leader, as they did for John Burke, but they will not tolerate what they believe is control of both political parties by the same group.

The little bunch of I. V. A. leaders, who do not represent the bulk of the Independent adherents in the state, announced their fusion plans boldly before the primary. They openly and covertly opposed Senator McCumber in the primary, although he represents ideas of government they claim to support, and protests were made to them that the fusion plan could not be successful. They were urged to unite in an effort to nominate McCumber. This was not done and the results reflect the mistake of fusion on national issues. But the I. V. A. leaders apparently loved McCumber less than Frazier. One who made such a protest before the primary told the I. V. A. leaders that they would, by their own actions, handicap O'Connor and elect Frazier. This man went on the stump for O'Connor, and spoke effectively, in Bismarck and elsewhere, but he had told the truth in the first place.

The Tribune deplored the fusion plan and the opposition to Senator McCumber, not because it was inimical to Mr. O'Connor, but because it believed the state ought to try and nominate in the primary a man of Senator McCumber's capacity, who had reached such a high place in the senate and in the party councils. The defeat of McCumber and O'Connor means that under the ordinary rules at Washington Senator Ladd and Mr. Frazier will control most of the patronage in North Dakota. It gives them the opportunity to place wheel-horses of the Nonpartisan league in public jobs and to perpetuate their organization at public expense. If the state has not "finished the job" the onus must rest upon these few political leaders who beat Senator McCumber because of personal grievance, and elected Frazier by their attempt to succeed in a patently improbable effort. And the tribute to Frank O'Connor lies in the fact that in spite of the handicaps over which he had no control he made such a remarkable race.

A WORD OF THANKS
The Tribune cannot find adequate words in which to thank the voters of Bismarck for the loyal support given for official paper. Every ward endorsed this paper and in all but one, the vote was most substantial. The Tribune sought earnestly and honestly to bring these official notices to the readers of the county, but as was the case two years ago a three cornered nered fight, the fact that some 200 or 300 failed to vote in Bismarck on the issue and the position at the foot of the ballot militated against a complete expression.

The newspaper-law is most vicious in principle as it forces a business into the hurly burly of politics and naturally restricts the freedom of the press. The law should be changed providing for a special ballot such as is done on all other special issues. It should also be required that a newspaper to qualify should be in existence at least a year and by a sworn statement prove that it has a paid general circulation.

As the law now stands, it becomes the instrument of politicians to work their venom upon newspapers they cannot control or dominate—while the public business is denied publicity in the paper most generally read and people in many instances are forced to print legal notices in two papers—in one to conform with the law and in the other of general circulation—TO GET RESULTS.

The Tribune again thanks its thousands of patrons for their support and encouragement. It hopes to merit more and more this confidence with the assurance that the interests of this community regardless of political patronage, are paramount to the selfish interests of a few designing politicians. The farmers of Burleigh county are to be congratulated upon the loyalty they showed to an organ in which they have a financial interest and which is the mouthpiece of their special interests.

As for The Tribune its course is independent—a Square Deal to All. It will continue to commend where credit is due and to rebuke where criticism is necessary in the interest of the public weal without view to political reward at the public crib.

The campaign is over—what is more important is the big task ahead to bridge that gap which separates the city from its best customer—The Farmer; to banish forever the ugly terms of opprobrium and abuse in that spirit, that must eventually prevail if the state is to continue to forge ahead.

GHASTLY
When woollens were scarce in 1919, many of us, without knowing it, wore clothes made out of casket cloth, used for lining coffins. This is revealed in a New York City court, when two textile firms go to law about payments in an old contract.

Remembering the wearing quality of some of those 1919 garments, many of us will agree that they certainly would have been more appropriate buried than worn.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Jack O'Lantern was leaning against the barn. He was unhappy and dejected in spite of the fact that the corners of his mouth were turned up in a grin showing two rows of enormous teeth.

"I don't understand it," he said to the turkey. "For awhile I was the most important person hereabouts. Every night the children put a candle in me and carried me around on a broomstick and scared the whole neighborhood, and my, but we had the fun."

"Yes, I know," gobbled the turkey sympathetically. "Indeed, I was very jealous of you getting all the attention. It just shows how fickle people are and how soon they tire of their friends."

"Well, you don't need to be jealous now," spoke up Jack O'Lantern with spirit. "The whole family have suddenly grown quite fond of you. Master feeds you enough corn to make you burst, and Mistress says a dozen times a day, 'My, but that turkey is getting fat!' As for me, not a soul looks to see how inside I am getting. I feel all gone thin!"

Jack O'Lantern sighed. Such an enormous sigh that he fell over on the ground and his head rolled off his broomstick body. "Now I am done for," he cried out weekly. "No one will ever see me here."

Suddenly a voice asked, "Does anyone know where we can find Mr. Jack O'Lantern?"

"Goodness!" thought Jack O'Lantern. "I must be off some importance after all! Somebody hasn't forgotten me. I wonder who it is. Here I am!" he called as loudly as he could. "Who wants me?"

"Nancy and Nick," came Nancy's sweet voice. "We're looking for Mother Goose's broom. Did you see it?"

Eat Raw Cranberries And Live to Ripe Old Age, Doctor Advises

BOSTON, Today—"A few cranberries a day keeps old age away" might well be the slogan of Doctor Richard Hogner—a prominent physician of this city who declares that cranberries contain certain properties, including the well-known and handsomely advertised "Vitamin-C," which conduce to long life, health and happiness.

According to Doctor Hogner, the cranberry is about the most useful of any of the berries which the American housewife makes into jellies, jams, preserves and shortcakes. In raisins, preserves and shortcakes, in berry, raspberry, huckleberry and blackberry pale into insignificance.

While admitting that the cranberry in its cooked, preserved or jellied state is delicious and healthful, the Doctor asserts that to get the full benefits of its health-giving properties the cranberry must be eaten raw.

Along this line he says: "Almost any healthful, nourishing food can be spoiled by the wrong kind of cooking. Boiling too long, overheating, too little sugar (not enough to prevent alcoholic fermentation, which destroys the vitamins), too much prun, peeling and coring, takes away the food value of many fruits.

"Now the cranberry is exceedingly rich in vitamins—as necessary to life as water. It is an easy matter to eliminate a proportion of the vitamins by improper cooking or over-serving. To get the full benefit of them the fruit should be eaten raw."

Oats Never Cooked so quickly

Instant Quaker Oats

Cook in 3 to 5 minutes

Your grocer now has Instant Quaker Oats, as well as the style you know.

Instant Quaker, perfected by our experts, is the quickest cooking oats in the world. It cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes.

Both styles have that exquisite flavor which has won the world to Quaker. Both are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats. In both we get but ten pounds from a bushel.

But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

If you want the Instant Quaker, look for "Instant" on the label. You will get the quickest cooking oat flakes ever known.

JACK BENTLEY VERSUS BABE RUTH

LEFT TO RIGHT: BABE RUTH, JACK BENTLEY

By Billy Evans.
Is a slugging batsman who can hit home runs more valuable than a star pitcher who can win a majority of his games?
In a mean use that question was answered five or six years ago by Ed Barrow, who was then managing the Boston team of the American League.
At that time Babe Ruth was generally considered the best left-hander in the Johnson organization. He could be depended upon to win at least 20 games a season.
All of a sudden Ruth began to show an inclination to hit home runs. The inclination grew until Ruth became the most feared batsman in the American League. His habit to hit home runs began to overshadow his pitching.
Fans Revel in Homers.
The fans enthused much more when Ruth broke up a ball game by hitting a home run with a couple on than when he scored a shutout.
That feeling of the part of fandom caused Manager Barrows to do some tall thinking. Would it be advisable to use Ruth every day as an outfielder and add his home-run punch to the strength of the team or use him every fourth day as a pitcher?
Barrows decided that Ruth, the best left-hander in the American League, should forget his pitching and become Ruth the slugging outfielder.
A great many people ridiculed the idea. They thought Barrows was making a huge mistake in spoiling a great pitcher for an uncertainty as an outfielder and hitter.
Ruth Delivered Goods.
In the case of Ruth, Barrows was right. Babe soon became the batting sensation of the country. In 1919 he made 29 home runs, breaking the record of 27 that has stood since 1847. In 1920 he made 45 home runs and in 1921 50.
Just as Ruth, wonder batsman of the New York Yankees, begins to fade John McGraw of the New York Giants purchases Jack Bentley, the "Babe Ruth" of the minors.
Bentley is a crack left-handed pitcher, best known for his ability to hit home runs. His case is exactly similar to that of Ruth when he was with Boston.
Where will McGraw use Bentley, as a pitcher or first baseman?
Will Pitch for Giants.
McGraw has already gone on record as saying that Bentley would be a member of the Giants' pitching staff. If such is the case it is a certainty that he will also play the role of punch hitter when not on the rubber.
Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore team, who sold Bentley to the Giants, never could reach a decision in Bentley's case. As a result he had Bentley playing first when not pitching.
Last season Bentley took part in 150 games. He made 206 hits for an average of .348. Twenty-two of the hits were home runs.
As a pitcher he worked in 14 games, winning 13. The only defeat he suffered was at the hands of the Rochester club.
Years ago Bentley received a trial with the Washington club but was let out. In 1917 the Boston Red Sox drafted him but he entered the military service and was never taken on by the Sox.

Two New Umpires Join American League

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 10.—The signing of two new umpires by President Johnson of the American League is an indication that he intend to shake up the personnel of his staff.
The two new men signed are "Red" Grimsby and "Ducky" Holmes. Both new umpires in the Western League last year and gave excellent satisfaction in that circuit.

Coast Experts Pick Kamm To Star With Chicago
Coast League players are confident that Willie Kamm will be a sensation in the American League in 1923.
Kamm, it will be remembered, is the player for whom Chicago paid something like $100,000 and gave three pitchers, Hodge, Courtney and McWeeny.
Kamm is a third baseman, and is he is nearly as good as his advance notice, will play the position for the Sox, supplanting Mulligan and McClellan, who divided the time around the difficult corner in 1922.
Frank Chance, says there is no question about Kamm's fielding. There is a slight doubt as to his hitting, according to Chance. However, he figures Kamm will prove a valuable outfielder that he will be a great player in the American League if only able to hit around .260.
Ascen' Vitt, a mighty good third baseman, who has seen much service in the American League but who is now playing on the coast, is strong for Kamm.
"Kamm is a big leaguer right now. He doesn't need a bit of experience to polish him off. He will make good, from the opening game," says Vitt.
Umpire George Hildebrand of the American League, tall, who lives in San Francisco and has often seen Kamm play, is another strong booster for the youngster.
"Kamm is one of the most wonderful fielders I have ever seen," says Hildebrand. "When he goes after a ball you are only surprised when he fails to get it. He makes the most difficult kind of chances look easy."
All of which makes it very clear that Kamm is to get his money's worth out of Kamm.

YOST OF MICHIGAN TALKS ON GRIDIRON THRILLS
What is the most thrilling play in football?
What is the most intense play in football?
Fielding H. Yost, coach of Michigan, replying to the first question: "The most thrilling play of a game depends entirely upon the situation. Any play can be a thrilling play and the same play can carry no thrill at all. It all depends upon what the play means and what it results in."
"A simple play in mid-field that gains nothing cannot hold any thrill. The same play resulting in a touchdown carries the thrill of the game. It all depends."
Regarding the most intense play: "When your team is kicking from behind its own goal line you have football's most intense play."
"As the teams line up for the punt and you have in mind all the possibilities and the disastrous results of a blocked punt, you get about as much intensity as anything in sports can furnish."

Getting the "Breaks" In Football
"Bo" McMillan Discusses That Important Feature of The Game
BY "BO" McMILLAN.
All-America Quarterback.
What part does luck play in the winning of the losing of a football game? Ofttimes the results are attributed to either good or bad luck.
"If you will allow me to substitute 'breaks' for luck I will agree with the sport writers in saying that the breaks in a game often decide the outcome."
In Centre's first game with Harvard I remember of hearing Fitzgerald, their quarterback, saying "Wait for the breaks, boys, we'll get one in a minute." And sure enough they did.
Soon after the start of the second quarter Murphy, the lightest man to ever play in the stadium, was sent into punt for us. The kick went straight up in the air and out of bounds on our own 30-yard line.
This was the break that the Crimsons were looking for. They had little trouble in carrying the ball over in successive plunges because the punter and fight was taken out of our men by such a poor kick.
Harvard Waits for Breaks.
If one will read the history of the Harvard victories he will note that the majority of their drives which result in touchdowns were inspired by a break in their favor. They are coached to hold their opponents and wait for breaks.
In 1919 Centre won from the University of Indiana because we took advantage of a break. We had battled through three periods and there was only about four minutes left in the fourth. The score was 3 to 0 in favor of Indiana. The cadet band had formed to lead the victory march.
Just at this time an Indiana back fumbled on their 40-yard line and a

PARSONS SAYS IT IS BEST MOVE HE EVER MADE
"When I got Tanlac it was the best move I ever made, for it has put me in fine shape again," declared J. L. Parsons, 701 Pelham St., St. Paul, Minn.
"I suffered something awful for a year from stomach trouble and indigestion. After eating I had a sluggish, drowsy feeling, nothing agreed with me, and my stomach soured after every meal, causing gas and the most terrible pains. I was in such misery I could get no restful sleep, and was rapidly losing my strength and energy."
"I have taken only three bottles of Tanlac, but all my troubles have disappeared, and I am enjoying better health than in years. There's something about Tanlac that certainly does the work."
Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.
Centre man recovered. I used a silent signal and shot a pass to Armstrong which gained 15 yards. Before the "Hoosiers" could recover from the shock of the fumble and the completed pass I had shot Roberts over the goal line in three plunges.
We made another touchdown in the remaining minute and a half on an intercepted pass and the final score was Centre 12, Indiana 3.
Now I do not think that you could attribute this victory to luck, for if we hadn't possessed the power and fight to take advantage of that break the cadets would have had their parade.
Success Depends on Facts.
When a good player is injured and has to be taken out of the game the coach often complains of hard luck, and if the game results in a loss for his team the sport writers will say that the winning team was a bit lucky.
Of course this is an unfortunate circumstance, but the successful coach will be prepared for just such an emergency and will have a trained substitute to take his place. I believe that the strength of a winning football team lies in the strength of the substitutes. If it had not been for the substitutes at Centre last year being almost as strong as the regulars we could not have had the success we did have.
I have noticed that a great many of our smaller college teams are built around one man and if he has to leave the game his team goes to pieces. A successful football team cannot depend upon one man but must work as a machine to come out on top. It is true that all good coaches are not fortunate in having capable substitutes and he might go through several games without needing them, but in the long run he will feel the need.
I believe that it is folly for a coach to start his eleven best men in a game because he is sure to need a good fresh man when the breaks go against him.
Quite a few sport writers said that Centre was lucky to beat West Virginia in 1919. We unquestionably outplayed them in all departments of the game and the breaks were certainly in their favor. Once we were forced to punt on our 15-yard line, Roberts, who was doing our kicking in that game, dropped back about 10 yards. I blocked the tackle and looked around just in time to see Red completely miss the ball, something I have never heard of happening in a football game.
Had the "Mountaineers" taken advantage of this break they could have easily crossed our goal line. Instead, they foolishly called time out and allowed us to recover from the shock, which we did and held them for downs.

PRESIDENT'S RED CROSS PROCLAMATION
Asks for Generous Response To Roll Call to Meet European and Domestic Needs
President Warren G. Harding in his proclamation in connection with the Red Cross Roll Call which opens tomorrow, Armistice Day, and closes on Thanksgiving day has proclaimed Nov. 12 as Red Cross Sunday.
"I invite the people to unite with their spiritual leaders in such observance of it as may promote a renewed consecration to the gospel of service based upon divine injunction and sanctioned by all good consciences," said the President.
There are even greater reasons why there should be an even more generous response to the call of the Red Cross, declared the President in his proclamation. "One of the most fearful disasters of all history has befallen the ill-fated Near Eastern area, where the lives of millions of unfortunate people even now depend and must continue for a long time to depend, on the untiring liberality of more favored communities."
If this emergency is to be met, said the President, an even greater sum of money must be raised, and the fortunately situated people in our country, must be conspicuous for both the great share it gives and the high spirit animating the gift.
In the domestic field, he said, the demand for the services rendered by the American Red Cross is even greater this year than ever before, for it has the after war conditions to meet, for its aim is to restore every service man to health and to aid him

News of the Markets

WHEAT PRICES
IN DECLINE AT OPENING

(By the Associated Press)
Chicago, Nov. 10.—Notwithstanding a little show of firmness at the start wheat prices underwent a moderate decline today during the early dealings. A rise in Liverpool quotations was responsible for the initial upward tendency here, but buying lacked volume and the market was readily depressed by scattered selling. In this connection, some notice was taken of assertions that with the British and French in accord, anxiety regarding the Turkish situation had been almost dispelled. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to 3/4c higher with December 1.15 1/2c and May 1.14 1/2c, was followed by a general setback.

Corn and oats eased down with wheat. After opening at 1/2c decline to 1/2c 3/4c, the corn market showed moderate losses all around. Oats started unchanged to 1/4c lower, December 42 1/2c, and later continued to sag.

Despite weakness of both values provisions were steady, the absence of any aggressive pressure to sell. Subsequently, there was considerable evening up of trades so as to minimize open risks during the double holiday—tomorrow and Sunday. Prices closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3/4c lower, with December 1.15 1/2c, to 1.16 1/4c and May 1.14 1/2c to 1.15 1/4c.

NEWS OF WALL STREET

(By the Associated Press)
New York, Nov. 10.—The struggle for supremacy between opposing speculative forces imparted a decidedly irregular trend to opening prices in today's stock market. A number of shares conspicuously weak in yesterday's late dealings continued under pressure today, notably Allied Chemical, Studebaker, Baldwin and the steel shares. On the other hand there was a moderate inquiry for some of the public utilities. Market Street Rallying, price preferred duplicated its year high on a net gain of two points. National Biscuit also established a new peak price. Weakness was noted, however, in General Electric, Famous Players, United States Alcohol, Consolidated Gas, Continental Can and Fisher Body. Foreign exchange rates were easier. New York, Nov. 10.—Heartened by their success in depressing a number of specialties, including Allied Chemical, which dropped eight points yesterday, speculators turned their attention to some of the market leaders. Pressure on common was subjected to pressure and suggested to 108, its weakness having a restraining effect on buying in other quarters of the list. Attempts were made to rally the list by bidding up to various oil, shipping and food, shoe, and merchandising shares but most of them made only a feeble response to the bullish operations. Cash money opened at 5 1/2 percent.

Perceiving that the bulls lacked the courage of their continuations to buy stocks, bears redoubled their efforts and succeeded in bringing about a general decline of large dimensions. Their ability to uncover stocks for which there was no apparent support led to free offerings of other shares by tired outholders.

MINNEAPOLIS WHEAT

(By the Associated Press)
Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—There was considerable bullishness around the opening today but many hedging sales quickly wiped out an opening advance of a quarter of a cent. Cash wheat demand was better and some sales were made at a slight advance compared with futures, but average figures were about the same as Thursday. Durum offerings were scarce. Winter prices were inclined to be weaker where offerings in Northern cars were concerned.

Corn offerings were liberal and the market slumped. Oats demand was about steady. Rye demand slackened a little, enough to result in lower bids for eastern line cars. Barley demand held draggy and featureless and prices were about unchanged. Flax premiums were off.

ky that is four square with golden streets and peary gate. Most of the people are such literalists that they think of this city as only belonging to another world. No man will ever walk the golden streets of any other world who does not begin to walk them in this world and no man will ever pass through the gaily gates in any other world who does not pass through the nearly gates here first. Our sole purpose is to build a four square city on earth. The first side of this city is "Loyalization." We must be loyal to the Country, to the State, to the Community and to everything in it that makes for a general uplift. Any man who thinks that any other country is a better country to live in than the United States, I would like to contribute to his boatfare to get back over there. Any man who believes that any other state than North Dakota is better to live in, it would be a great thing for North Dakota if he would get out. Any man who stands on the street of Bismarck and puts out propaganda that this is a poorer town than any other town, it would be a great thing for Bismarck if he would leave it. You cannot build up successfully a community on a Sore and Roubidoux catalogue. There must be a spirit of loyalization to the press, to the schools, to the churches, to the and your business institutions, and everybody for each other to build a four square city.

tion. You make Bismarck a friendly city and the stranger who comes through here will think that he has hit the golden city and passed through the "pearly gates." The chances that if you are prejudiced against a man, if you get better acquainted with him you will find you like him. Speak to the stranger within your gates and especially the boys and girls. If you are the type of citizen that no boy speaks to, take stock of yourself and you will find that you are an old grouse.

The third side is "Organization." There is no organization that can do for the city what a Chamber of Commerce can. All other organizations tend to separate into groups and cliques. Your political party cannot put over a community propaganda. Politics tend to sub-divide us. Your lodge cannot do it. Lodges are so many in number that many cannot keep their passwords separate. Your churches cannot do it for we are again divided into a score of groups. The Chamber of Commerce is the one organization that brings Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews together. The course of the world is intense partisanship and religious bigotry. Any organization that tends to make us forget our political differences and the stone walls of creeds is a great patriotic and religious asset.

"The fourth side is 'Visualization.' We must have a new high vision of the soul of the city. There is rampant propaganda being put out from our great cities which damns our government, our schools and our churches. It curries marriage and all the fundamentals of our civilization. There must be a new allegiance of the religious faith of our fathers. Our churches must be filled, our schools must be supported, the home must be safeguarded. They propose that we will have more democracy in this country or revolution. Christianity and the Chamber of Commerce propose that we will have more democracy by evolution, the evolution of the Sermon on the Mount and of the Christian religion. We need a new type of religion that places emphasis in this world where Christianity places it. Not in dying, but in living. The idea that a man can go through this world and get all he can and not give out anything lives a selfish life and in the end repudiate the faith and go weeping in the face of the future. Your destiny depends on the way that you live. If your chief object is to get your own coat into heaven you will lose, but if you give yourself in this world and in Bismarck, you will find your real self."

From 1,510 of the 1,768 precincts in South Dakota, Miss Alice Lorraine Daily, Nonpartisan candidate, was slightly behind her opponent, behind the Democratic candidate. The vote stood: McMaster 70,575; Crill 44,098; Daily 40,098.

The proposed constitutional amendments which would allow the legislature to fix the pay of all of the legislature and raise the minimum per centum of voters required to indicate a measure, were overwhelmingly defeated, the returns indicated. Initiated measures proposing a state owned hydro electric power plant, abolishment of the office of state sheriff and the state constabulary, repeal of the law prohibiting Sunday amusements, removal of the University of South Dakota from Vermillion to Sioux Falls, and proposing to authorize the state to engage in the banking business, also were voted against by a large majority of electors.

A Successful Man

Among the notable professional men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line. Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription, which has never been equalled for the weaknesses of women. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases, and learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic, a good that druggists everywhere sell in both tablet and fluid form. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package. Write for free medical advice.

DEER SEASON IS 20 DAYS

Opinion of Attorney General's Office Is Given

The following statement has been issued by the North Dakota Game and Fish Commission:

"After sending in the notice on the opening of the deer season, we have received at this office, an opinion from the attorney general's office, which changes the time, as you will note, so that in order that every one may have the same number of days to hunt we will abide by the decision, although the intent of the law was for 10 days only.

Quoted as follows—After looking up the matter thoroughly, I am of the opinion that the season for killing deer opens on Nov. 10th and continues to Nov. 30th, both days inclusive. This is in accordance with chapter 134 of the 1919 session laws of the state of North Dakota, being an amendment to Sec. 10298 of the compiled laws of 1913. The 17th session of the legislative assembly of the state of North Dakota attempted to amend above section of the compiled laws, as well as chapter 134, of the 1910 session laws, but in looking up the records in both the Senate and the House Journals for 1921, I find that House bill 107 did not pass both Houses in the same form. For that reason, such amendment did not carry, and chapter 69 of the 1921 Session laws, being House bill 107, is not in effect, and the old law, as provided for in chapter 134 of the 1919 Session laws, is controlling on this question.

(Signed) CHARLES SIMON, Assistant Attorney General.

Cranberries The Fruit For Every Meal!

Cranberries are good themselves and make other foods taste good! At breakfast—try cranberry jelly on hot biscuits or toast; it is surprisingly good! For lunch—with cold cuts—cranberry sauce makes a most delicious relish. For dinner—with roast beef—cranberry sauce adds a piquant flavor and aids digestion. Try these recipes:

Cranberry Sauce One quart cranberries, two cups boiling water, 1 1/2 to 2 cups sugar. Boil sugar and water together for five minutes; skim; add the cranberries and boil without stirring (five minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins are broken. Remove from the fire when the popping stops.

Cranberry Pie Have ready a partly baked pastry shell. Pour in sauce when cold, made by the above sauce recipe, put strips of pastry over the top, and finish baking in a moderate oven.

Always cook cranberries in porcelain-lined, enameled, or aluminum vessels. To be sure of a selection of the choicest varieties—ask for Eatmor Cranberries. A folder containing recipes for other ways to use and preserve cranberries, sent free.

Safeguarding Nature's Most Valuable Food, MILK Milk is damaged by bacteria. Decency demands that all milk should be clean. Any clean man can produce clean milk. Cleanliness has a market value, the market prices should be based not only on richness of butter-fat but on sanitary character, as shown by bacterial tests. Clarification contributes to the decency of all milk and the safety of raw milk. Pasteurization is positively necessary for all milk; for the sake of safety. It is the only guaranty. Certified milk is clean but offers no guaranty of safety and is too expensive. "CLARIFICATION" contributes to the decency of all milk—and in the case of raw milk would add five points to safety. These are the reasons for centrifugal clarification of milk. Wherever you go the reasons are the same, and that is the reason why in over 60% of the cities the milk is centrifugally clarified. Dealers in cities have found that it pays to deliver the cleanest milk that can be produced—milk which not only has a low bacteria count but is free from dirt as well. In order to deliver such milk they must use the DeLaval Clarifier. None other will do. In order to be sure that your milk is both Clarified and Pasteurized place your orders with the Modern Dairy Co. We Clarify all our milk through our 12000 pound capacity DeLaval Clarifier. MODERN DAIRY COMPANY Phone 880 206-5th Street Phone 880
